CHARTING PATHS TO LEADERSHIP

There is no universal blueprint for leadership, no designated path that everyone must walk to claim the title of 'leader.' Dr. Marilyn A. Clark believes that every individual has leadership potential, and her expertise is in helping people identify their distinct track to becoming true leaders. With 20+ years of experience as an executive coach and speaker, Marilyn is passionate about helping people harness the power of their unique skills and life experiences and advising companies in uncovering hidden leaders within their organizations.

Marilyn has spoken at conferences worldwide, including the Korean Academy of Human Development and the National Minority Supplier Diversity Council. As a highly skilled leadership consultant and coach, she has served as a proactive business partner to leaders in Fortune 100 companies, government, academia, and non-profit entities. Marilyn's talent development consulting enterprise, Clark Consulting Group, provides everything from organizational design strategy and competency modeling to succession planning and personality assessment administration and interpretation. As a speaker, she emphasizes creating leaders, experiential learning, and career management. Marilyn uses real-world examples to engage with her audiences and showcase how to cultivate authentic leaders in a professional setting.
